

INFO

I'm Stephen, a Videographer based in Dublin, Ireland. I have a great passion for film and in general, video as a platform. My background experience comes from both freelance and full-time professional work, with my previous experience being in Creative Advertisement.

I get great satisfaction in working as part of a team to produce online video content that engages its audience and tells a story to the viewer. I aim to work as part of a team that will help me develop those skills further, as well as offer my own talents to the production process.
